

37th Annual March for Life

5TH ANNUAL INTERCOLLEGIATE PILGRIMAGE

JANUARY 20-24, 2010 • WASHINGTON, D.C.

Join Students from around the Chicago area as they head to the Nation's Capital this January to proclaim the truth: each human life has dignity, and each human life is sacred, from conception until natural death! Be a part of the solution at the 37th Annual March for Life—make new friends and reconnect with old. This is a life changing experience which has converted the hearts of many . . . Be inspired, March for Life!

"...The march was NOTHING like I expected—In an incredibly positive way. I was pretty apprehensive about it because I was worried there would be pro-choicers protesting and that some people would get out of hand, but it wasn't like that at all. Everyone was marching in solidarity for a common cause, and it was a beautiful thing. I was also unbelievably impressed with the way our group in particular handled themselves. I felt that they were all so filled with the love and joy of Christ, that everything we did was peaceful and done out of love, rather than out of judgment."

~Keri, DePaul University '09

Colleges and Universities are encouraged to send a team to represent their campus on this Intercollegiate Pilgrimage. Last year, several schools were represented—Dominican University, DePaul University, Loyola University, Benedictine University, North Park College, and Wright College. Be among the growing numbers this January!

Cost for the Pilgrimage is $200, including coach bus fare, hotel accommodations and some meals. Please contact for fundraising information. Scholarships are available and nobody will be refused participation due to financial limitations.

Registration Deadline is December 2, 2009!
